

GIFTS TO SCHOOLCHILDREN

Goals

To promote better understanding of socio-economic differences and inspire a culture of philanthropy amongst Armenia's youngest generation.

Objectives

The Gifts to Schoolchildren project will aim to connect Armenian children in Yerevan with those who live in the vastly poor border communities of Nagorno Karabagh through a mutually beneficial exchange. By building partnerships between schools and ultimately the children in both of these areas these groups will be able to gain a greater understanding of one another and their respective communities. Children in Yerevan in particular will be able to gain a greater understanding about poverty and will hopefully see the joy in helping others less fortunate.

Project Description & Background

Life in Armenia's capital of Yerevan is different from the rest of the country; things move at a faster pace with greater opportunity for education and job prospects. Not far beyond the heart of the city however, one can find a more rural, antiquated way of life, where living in poverty is more the norm than the exception. Often, many children in these areas never really have a chance to know life outside their own villages.

Gifts to Schoolchildren will enable around 600 kids in Yerevan to have the opportunity to participate in a Christmas initiative. Ayo! initiated a partnership between about 6 schools in Yerevan, through which Yerevan students will create shoebox "gift boxes" for their counterparts in poorer, border communities. The boxes will contain much-needed, everyday items like stationery, a hygiene kit (containing a toothbrush, toothpaste, soap, shampoo, a comb and a towel, for example), toys, cookies, in addition to a personal letter from each sender. The gifts will be distributed to children between the ages of 7 and 9 who attend either first, second or third grades in the border region of Hadrut in Nagorno Karabagh.

In total, about 1800 children will participate in this project. By allowing them to engage with each other, they will be opened up to the differences in each other's lives and communities, ultimately creating a mutually beneficial exchange. Children in the villages will have the added comfort of knowing that there are people out there who care for them.

Children are shaped by their environment and as ambassadors of the nation's future, this project aims to take them beyond what they know, ultimately broadening their perspective. We can teach them about other places if we show, tell and take them there.
